

SEO Specialist & Senior Writer at DualShockers

GRV Media is one of the UK's largest independent media companies, with over 120 website and YouTube content producers.

The company's flagship gaming website, DualShockers, is looking to further expand. After three months of solid growth, we are looking for an SEO specialist and staff writer to come in and help the site build audiences.

The role will focus on identifying and generating articles on a range of trending topics and games, including the latest releases and the hottest games of the moment. You will be writing guides, news pieces and anything in between.

If you have experience spotting trends and writing articles that can cut through the noise of a busy and competitive industry, this position will be suited to you.

This is a work-from-home role, and we are happy to receive applications from any part of the globe.

GRV Media has a performance based culture, and, in addition to a competitive base salary, all staff are eligible for participation in our discretionary bonus scheme.

Interested candidates should please send a CV, covering letter and a link to samples of their work to:

Vic.daniels@grv.media